

Juan Torres joins Voxy as Chief Operating Officer

NEW YORK - September 16, 2014-

Voxy, the education technology company that pioneered personalized and adaptive English language learning announced today that Juan Torres has joined the company as Chief Operating Officer.

Torres will join Voxy's senior leadership team and will be responsible for all internal operations for the company as the team and business continue to grow. Having served as an education industry entrepreneur and executive for over 15 years, Torres has dedicated much of his professional career to the field. Prior to being selected as Voxy's Chief Operating Officer, he held various other leadership roles including, Senior Vice President of Strategy and Development at UniversityNow, President and Co-founder at Platform Learning and Co-founder and Advisor at LearnNow.

"When I looked at Voxy closely it simply seemed like a perfect personal and professional fit," said Torres. "Over the course of my career I've built and run fast-growing companies that have provided broad access to high quality learning experiences. I know that what we need is a truly product-centric approach to language instruction with demonstrable efficacy.

Voxy is the company that can do that. I am excited to help lead a team that is already executing on its promise in ways that are resonating with organizations and English language learners across the world."

"Voxy is entering our most exciting stage of growth yet and we are thrilled to have Juan joining us," said Paul Gollash, Voxy's Founder and CEO. "The depth and breadth of expertise he brings in building, scaling, and managing high-growth education companies is a welcome addition to our leadership team."
